

Joromi, in Benin mythology, was a wrestler.

The world champion.

He conquered the world and he thought he
should go to hell,

where the devil has seven heads.

That means every human being is god

and what we do is honor and worship god to god,
that is being to being.

The third most beautiful woman in the universe,
Lola Odusoga,

returned back home to Finland, welcomed with roses and hugs.

You have to go to the culture.

Now when you go the culture, the culture takes
you to the religion,

because the religion is what creates the values
and the standards and the morals
for the culture to express itself.

So if you're dealing with roots, if you're dealing with source

if you're dealing with links you have to go back to the original source.

Not being a part of the past,
out of present, out of future.

But rather, what I call an altered destiny,
because I'm dealing with equations.

Today we're going to warm ourselves up with a brisk and rhythmic march.

And now...

love.

Ashes to ashes

Dust to dust

Calling planet earth

♪ Yemoja chant ♪